Local Briefs.
—The colored Methodist Sunday-school had a pleasant picnic in Smart's woods on Friday.
—As a result of the recent rains, our farmers will have plenty of grass to engage their attention for a while.
—The State will lose a considerable amount of money from the damage done to the Columbia canal by the recent rains.
—The weather was quite cool on Wednesday, which must have been occasioned by a fall of hail at some place recently.
—It is stated that no trains will be run through on the Greenville & Columbia Railroad for a week, on account of the washouts.
—An account of the meeting of the Teachers' Association at Mossy Dale on Saturday last reached us too late for publication in this issue, but will appear in our next.
—Two large cowhairs snakes were killed in the road in front of Mr. T. K. Elliott's residence a few days ago. They each measured about six feet in length, and were very near together when killed.
—The passenger trains on the Richmond & Danville Railroad, South Carolina Division, have been crowded for the past week, as all travel which would naturally go by way of the Greenville & Columbia and Spartanburg & Union Railroads, has to go around by way of Charlotte.
Now is the time to get a good Cincinnati Open or Top Buggy, Three-Spring Wagon, Turnout Seat Buggy, Platform Spring or Farmer's Wagon, with snafu or pole, Single or Double Harness, cheap for cash or bankable paper, from J. O. Boag.
—A special train carrying a large force of hands passed up the railroad on Tuesday, to be ready on Wednesday morning to commence the work of changing the gauge on the Atlantic, Tennessee & Ohio Division of the Richmond & Danville system. The work on this road was completed in one day.
—We learn that the school will be closed on the 1st of June, as it is thought inadvisable to continue it to the end of the session, on account of the work of putting up the new college building. This will be welcome news to the pupils, who have already been counting the days until the school would close.
—The authorities of the South Carolina College will accept our thanks for an invitation to attend the commencement celebration of the Literary societies on June 21st and 22nd. We are glad to notice the name of Mr. W. D. Douglass, of our town, on the invitation. He will represent the Episcopalian society as Junior Orator.
—Mrs. Boag has now opened her stock of Spring and Summer Millinery, to which she respectfully invites the inspection of her friends and patrons generally. Call early and be suited. A full stock of Dry Goods, Fancy Goods, Notions, Groceries, and everything usually found in the general merchandise line. All to be found at the store of J. O. Boag, as low as the lowest.
A REQUEST.—The building committee in charge of the Mount Zion College, request us to ask the little boys who visit the new building in the evening, not to disturb the men who are at work. They have annoyed the workmen very much for the past few days, and it would be well for the parents to forbid them going there at all, unless they can conduct themselves aright while there.
DEATH.—On Thursday little Annie Louisa Roche, who had been suffering for some time with measles, was relieved of her pain and called to a higher and happier world. For several days she lingered between life and death, and friends had given up hope of her recovery. She was about seven months old. Her remains were laid away in the grave-adjacent to the Methodist church. The family has the sympathy of a host of friends in their bereavement.
CAPTURED IN ABBEVILLE.—Trial Justice Cathcart on Thursday received a telegram from the Sheriff of Abbeville, informing him that Sheriff Robertson, the negro who is charged with an outrageous assault upon a colored girl in this county a few weeks ago, had been captured in that county and had been lodged in jail. As soon as the railroad is put in traveling condition, an officer will go to Abbeville and bring the prisoner to this place for trial.
WORK BEGINS.—On Monday Mr. Asbury, the contractor for Charlotte, who is to put up the new College building, arrived with a crowd of hands and on Tuesday the work of laying the foundation was commenced. The work will go on as rapidly as possible, but he fears that he will be delayed some on account of the work of changing the gauge of the railroads, and for this reason cannot get his material here as rapidly as he would like. He has already been delayed on account of the heavy floods of the past week.
—Food for the brain and nerves that will invigorate the body without intoxicating, is what we need in these days of rush and worry. Parker's Tonic restores the vitality, soothes the nerves, and brings good health quicker than anything you can use.

THE CALHOUN MONUMENT.—The News and Courier says that the granite for the second course of the foundation of the Calhoun monument arrived from Winnsboro on Thursday and has been hauled to Marion Square, where it will be placed in position as soon as the work on the first course shall have been finished. The stone is dressed and consists of blocks about five feet in length, one foot six inches deep and one foot seven inches wide. The second course will form a hollow square of thirty-three feet, the interior of which is to be filled up with Stoney Landing brick.
A JOINT PICNIC.—At a recent meeting of representatives from the different Sunday-schools in town, it was thought inadvisable to have the joint picnic either at Columbia or at Rock City, as proper railroad facilities could not be obtained and there were other difficulties in the way. It was decided by them to have the joint picnic at Gum Spring woods on the 9th June. It is a very pleasant place to spend a day, and the scholars are looking forward to the event with great pleasure. The committee on transportation will make all arrangements for taking the children out to the grounds in the morning and bringing them back in the afternoon. A pleasant time is anticipated.
PERSONAL.—Mr. J. H. Yarbrough, of Dawkins, returned from Columbia on Wednesday, where he had been to stand an examination for admission to the bar. He informed us that there were sixteen applicants, but out of the sixteen only seven admitted. We congratulate him upon being among the successful seven. The Court seems to be getting more rigid in the examination every term.
Mr. O. W. Buchanan, who was elected Grand Master of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows at a meeting of the Grand Lodge in Chester a few days ago, is the youngest Grand Master ever elected in this State. We congratulate him upon his success.
A SEVERE STORM.—We learn that on last Friday afternoon a very severe storm of wind, rain and hail visited the Jenkinsville section of this county—the effects being most disastrous in the neighborhood of Shiloh church. The gin-house, the barn and the crib of Mr. Joseph K. Cook were destroyed, and one of the chimneys of his dwelling-house was badly injured. An out-house on the plantation of Mr. Joel McVeehan was blown down, and some other damage, mostly slight, was done on the place. The cotton of Mr. Wm. F. Stanton was well-nigh totally destroyed by the hail. Hillsides and gullies were badly washed. We have been able to gather no further details of what appears to have been a most disastrous storm, but we hope to have them later.
"I AM WILD YET."—On account of the same issue which will enter the approaching campaign, our shrewd politicians are balancing themselves upon the "fence." It reminds us very much of what a colored man once said at a ballot box in our State, when on the question of "fence law" or "no fence law," was voted on. This colored man came up to vote, when he was surrounded on all sides by advocates of both sides of the question who were inquiring whether he was for "fence law" or "no fence law." Not knowing just what was meant by the inquiries, and seeing that some men on both sides looked as if they might strike, he just sang out, "Gentlemen I am wild yet in this thing." This is about the way that our politicians put in the present issues.
PETIT JURORS.—The following is a list of petit jurors drawn by the jury commissioners on Wednesday, to serve at the June term of the court for this county:
James K. Stephenson, Charles Hays, John Lawhorn (colored), Edward L. Mobley, John S. Ligon, Wm. J. Clowner, John Wootan, Wm. F. O'Neal, John Kennedy (colored), Thomas Blair, D. P. Crosby, T. W. Lauderdale, Alick Woodward (colored), T. M. Rembert, F. M. L. Duke, Thos. W. Mellichamp, Jr., J. Turner Stewart, Eber B. Mason, Samuel L. Dixon, Thomas D. Brooks, Rufus Bratton (colored), Wylie M. Coleman, Joseph K. Nevitt, David A. McDowell, J. W. Crowder, Robert Crawford, John M. Bolin, Isaac S. Chappell, Joe McMeekin, W. T. Kelley, Ben Calvin (colored), Charles B. Blair, Thos. H. Sterling, Edward D. Mobley, N. A. Pear.
A MISSING CUP.—Two summers ago Mr. R. J. McCrory was awarded a cup for fine shooting at Warm Springs, which, at the time, was supposed to be silver, but upon examination it was found not to be. Last September it was taken back and a silver one awarded in its stead. Mr. McCrory never received it. It seems that about the 1st of last September, Mr. T. H. Gibbs, of Columbia, handed the box containing the cup to some one of our townsmen who happened to be in Columbia, to bring it up and deliver it to the owner. In a recent letter Mr. Gibbs informed Mr. McCrory, in reply to a letter of inquiry, that he had delivered it to some one who was coming to Winnsboro on the same day, but had forgotten who the gentleman was. It is supposed that whoever it was, has just laid it away and forgotten to deliver it. We are requested to insert this in the hope that the circumstances will be recalled and the cup delivered to its owner.
COLUMBIA'S STREET RAILWAY.—On Tuesday last a city railway company was organized in Columbia, under a charter obtained from the Legislature two years ago. The incorporators are Col. T. D. Gillespie and Capt. W. D. Starling, of Columbia, and Col. John R. Abney and Mr. H. M. Pearson, of New York. A meeting will be held in a few days for the election of officers and a board of directors. It has always been a matter of surprise to the public that they have not had a street railway in the city before this, as it has improved very much in other respects, and the situation is favorable to such an enterprise. The proposed road will traverse the principal streets of the city, and the streets leading to all the railroads and those leading to the asylum. If the enterprise is successfully carried on, it will add much to the convenience of the traveling public, and to the improvement of the city. Columbia seems to be wide awake upon the subject of improvement, and the men who are at the head of the railway enterprise are staunch men and are assured of its success.

A LIVELY RACE.—On Tuesday our chief of police received a communication from the chief of police of Columbia, telling him to be on the lookout for one Ben Brown, a colored man, who was wanted in that city for house-breaking and grand larceny. Just after walking out of the postoffice, Mr. Gilbert spied his man, who had gotten into the train at Simpson's Turnout and walked to town. He arrested him and started on his way to the guard-house when his prisoner to flight. After moving through lots and over fences hotly pursued by a good crowd of men he was captured by Mr. Groeschel, just south of Mr. A. N. Timms's residence, and afterwards lodged in the guard-house to await the arrival of an officer from Columbia. The prisoner once lived in this place, but left a few years ago and went to Charlotte, but had to leave that city on account of the commission of some crime, and from there went to Columbia. When he was arrested on Tuesday, he had a neat alligator satchel with the name Webb L. Fant in it. He had probably stolen it from some one, for when he was questioned about it he said he had bought it new, but when asked to explain the name in it was considerably embarrassed and could give no explanation.
The Exercises at Davidson College.—The following communication received from President McKinnon, of Davidson College, shows the order of exercises in Davidson College at the approaching exercises:
June 13, Baccalaureate sermon by the Rev. J. L. Girardeau D. D. L. D., 11 a. m.
June 13, Missionary sermon before the Y. M. C. A. by the Rev. J. H. Thornwell, 8 p. m.
June 15, Annual meeting of the board, 11 a. m.
June 15, Annual reunion of Literary Societies, 8 p. m.
June 16, Address before the Literary Societies by the Hon. W. M. Robbins, 11 a. m.
June 16, Meeting of Annual Association, 4 p. m.
June 16, Orations by Representatives of the Literary Societies, 8 p. m.
June 17, Commencement Exercises Proper, 10 a. m.
The regular trains leave Charlotte each day at 6:30 p. m. and Statesville at 8 a. m. An extra train will leave Charlotte on the 10th and 17th at 8:30 a. m., and return about 11 or 12 o'clock the same night. Reduced rates will be obtained at the principal stations on the roads leading into Charlotte, and on the Western North Carolina road. Comfortable accommodations will be provided at $1.50 per day by the following named parties, viz.: R. A. Braby, J. L. Sloan, the Rev. W. P. Williams, H. P. Helper, Mrs. Blair, Mrs. Stirewalt and Mrs. Sparrows.
MASS MEETING OF FARMERS.—To the Farmers of Fairfield County: A mass meeting of the farmers of the county is called to meet in the Court House, at Winnsboro, on the 1st Monday in June at 11 o'clock a. m. May 29th T. S. BRICE.

ITEMS FROM CEDAR CREEK.
As nothing has appeared in your columns lately from this portion of the county, I will send you a few lines. A few weeks since the cry was dry weather, everybody wishing for rain, but now their wishes have been fully satisfied. Crops are looking tolerably well. Spring oats are somewhat better than was at first anticipated. We notice that some of the wheat fields are beginning to look yellow. From the appearance of the gardens there will be plenty of vegetables this summer. Mr. Alfred Dunn has the finest cabbages that we have seen this season. There is much sickness in this portion of the county at the present time. Mr. J. Allen Turkett has been very sick for two weeks. A fortnight since he became very warm, went to a spring and drank too much cold water. He was found a short distance from the spring, unable to sit up. He was carried home and has been confined to his room ever since, and to his bed the most of the time. Glad to say that he is improving, but it is very slowly. The Rev. N. K. Melton has been very sick for several days. Also a little child of Mr. W. J. Johnson. Died on Thursday, after about eight months' illness, the wife of Mr. William Friday. She was buried on Friday morning at Cedar Creek church. The wife and a little son of Mr. D. S. Broom have been confined to their beds for some days, but we are informed that they are convalescent.
Quarterly Conference convened at Shiloh last Saturday and Sunday. Singing class met at Dr. Campbell's school-house last Saturday evening and sang a few sol-me-do's. All did remarkably well considering the practice that they have had. There are some good voices in that neighborhood, and all that is necessary is that they be cultivated.
Miss Jimima Smith has been visiting Mr. A. M. Black and wife. Miss Kittie A. Broom gave as a present, a nice pitcher, to be used in the new church at Pine Grove. Fruit is not as plentiful as we thought it would be. The cold weather in the spring caused peaches to fall off in large quantities. The shipping season will open in a few days. There was a select entertainment given at the residence of Mr. G. P. Hoffman on Thursday night last. Mr. J. B. Cloud has been confined to his house for several weeks from sickness.

Mr. S. C. Duke killed an owl on his place last week that measured seven feet and two inches from tip to tip.
Mr. Thomas Freeman has purchased the large and valuable tract of original timber, known as the Milling land, from Mr. W. J. Johnson. Mr. Freeman intends going into the turpentine business.
Mr. B. B. Jones is visiting friends in Ridgeview.
Blythehood will present no candidates for official honors at the approaching election.
A number of Blythehoodites made a raid on White Pond in Kershaw county a few days since, and captured a large number of the funny tribe. X.
OUR AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS.
How the Farmers May Do Themselves Good, and Also Help Posterity.
Messrs. Editors: Some may think that a revolution in agricultural pursuits in this and the adjoining counties is a theme already stepped in muddy logic, but old soldiers tell us that to throw a wall or take a fort, it required not the thundering crash of one great gun but the ceaseless booming of many. So must it be now to revolutionize the present system of farming in Fairfield—a system that has brought sad experience to every farmer, and in most cases, conviction. According to all accounts, for the last twenty years the farmers have gone on, all oblivious of the curse of cotton and the Lien Law, and at the same time if any realized the true state of things they made no effort at all, or if any, an insane effort, to free themselves—willing to go on, the dutiful slaves of poverty. A quietly folded his hands, threw his once fine plantation into the hands of idle, ignorant negroes, who cut to pieces, robbed, drained and ruined it, while nothing accrued to the negroes or the landowner, while the latter's topmost sentiment was "Going to quit farming." It would involve himself in a wild and tangled orbit business, then with an uncommon amount of dust and scattering would fall through—all the worse off. This is the rule; of course there are some exceptions. Now a new plan is coming to the front—must come. Deliverance from the old is what we want. Whence shall it come—from railroads, corporations, conventions or legislation? Certainly not. Just imagine a community of farmers, instead of the thundering of the railway train for a living. The farmer would soon become so he could not transport his thin body over its line for a half-cent per mile. Of what avail are the windy speeches and empty resolutions of the convention? As for legislation, no State has a better Legislature, nor one in which there are more farmers. None of these things are strictly needed, from which we can derive a new order of things. Though contrary to the theory of some, deliverance must come by the way of the plough—an energetic and scientific manipulation of the plough, coupled with an utter disregard for the credit system—throwing down the ready dollar upon the merchant's counter for value received. The question here arises how to get that dollar, or more of them. Well, it is not by "farmers' convention" or "individuality." X on have had the wolf long enough—turn loose. If there is no way to get over the fence to turn loose, let go any way—let go—let go, at all hazards—and it is likely the wolf will devour and leave you your liberty. Then begin now to let cotton alone, raise what is absolutely necessary for home consumption—diversify crops—raise some cotton—then smilingly pocket the money. Save your land—improve it—evolve a new order of things, along with common sense and economy—and a little time will develop the fact that by the plough is the way of escape.
Let the railroads then come, for then they will; for they are the offspring of agriculture, not the other way around. People cannot look to companies and the like for immediate salvation, but to themselves—their individual selves. Yes, begin at home in earnest, and there will be no need of the despairing, resigned logic of the "new order of things" for the far-off future; but they will blossom now, right now in our own time, and by the time the actors in the next generation come upon the stage they will find the full ripe fruit. A TRIP TO ALABAMA.
A Fairfield Man Attends the Baptist Convention.—Notes Gathered on the Trip.—Other Matters.
Messrs. Editors: Having been appointed a delegate to represent the State in the Southern Baptist Convention, which held its meeting at Montgomery, Ala. I took advantage of the reduced rates (R. R.), and killed two birds with one stone, viz.: Attended the Convention, and paid a flying visit to my two married daughters who reside about forty miles beyond Montgomery. At the appointed hour, the president, P. H. Mell, was in the chair. After the Convention was called to order and after devotional exercises, the different States were called and delegates enrolled. Each State is entitled to one delegate for every hundred dollars contributed to the missionaries. According to population South Carolina stands first in contributing. There were about 600 delegates present, and I have never seen a greater display of talent—a more respectable and intelligent looking body of men—than was assembled in the First Baptist Church at Montgomery. A more harmonious meeting I have never witnessed. The Convention sermon was preached by the Rev. J. B. Hawthorn, pastor of the First Church in Atlanta. I had often heard of the oratorical powers of Mr. H., but had no idea I would be so agreeably disappointed as I was. He held about 1,800 persons spell-bound for at least one and a quarter hours, and I was truly sorry when he closed. Could have listened to him another hour. Since the war. There are many beautiful residences, and a more hospitable people it has never been my fortune to meet. Every one is in a hurry, and a considerable amount of business is done. The city is noted not only for the hospitality of its people, but for the beauty of its females. Your correspondent is not a very close observer generally, but could not help being struck, with the beauty of the females and the charm of their voices. The city is noted for the pleasure of seeing the noted military companies, the Blues and Greys, who had just returned from a drill at Savannah, where they had each taken a prize. The Greys a prize of $2,000, I understand, and the Blues a prize of $1,500. They left for Vicksburg to attend another prize drill the same day I left Montgomery. A lively set of young men I assure you.

The citizens of Montgomery gave President Davis a grand reception, an account of which you have of course seen.
Just about a month before going out the people of Alabama passed through the same trying ordeal that the citizens of our State have lately passed through, viz., the highest water we have had since 1854. The Alabama River was said to be higher than it was ever known to be. Houses and stock were seen floating down its turbid waters until it ceased to be noticed. Of course all the lowlands were flooded, railroad bridges and trestles carried away, but the people went to work with a vim, and when I left the farmers had planted over and some had worked out their crops; bridges and trestles restored and every kind of business going on as if nothing had happened. The little town of Benton received its portion, the whole place, notwithstanding the high bluff, being under water, and skills might be seen floating through the streets. One house, we learned, was six feet under water. The citizens of Benton are congratulating themselves that the town, in consequence of the thorough cleansing it has had, will be healthy the present summer. We trust they may not be disappointed, but are fearful they will.
The farmers have perfect control over labor. Hands are at work just as the sun is rising in the East, and they continue to work long enough by good dark. The freedmen say they feed them well, pay them well and work them well, and the consequence is, at the end of the year they have something they can call their own, and water. The citizens of Benton are congratulating themselves that the town, in consequence of the thorough cleansing it has had, will be healthy the present summer. We trust they may not be disappointed, but are fearful they will.

I RESPECTFULLY INFORM THE public that I have taken the store next south of that of McCrory & Co., and will there conduct a FIRST CLASS BAR.
I shall keep none but good articles, and I ask a share of the public patronage.
